HOUSE PASSES BEER BILL, 230 TO 165

Moore Refuses to Extradite Burns

DEBT COMISH PLAN OPPOSED BY ROOSEVELT

WHITE HOUSE STILL SILENT ABOUT SITUATION

BY ROLAND ALSTON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 21 (AP)—President-elect Roosevelt's advisors said today that European press comment on President Hoover's recommendations to congress Monday had confirmed his belief that the European nations cannot be dealt with by a commission such as Mr. Hoover proposed without the determination of an American policy.

This belief, they said, probably will keep the New York governor in the role of interested spectator during any negotiations that the Hoover administration may conduct prior to March 4.

They said the cable dispatches from Europe relating to President Hoover's proposal for a commission, clothed in the authority of both the president and president-elect to study the war debt, world economic and disarmament problems, convinced him the Europeans would expect a great deal more than fact-finding from such a commission.

President-elect Roosevelt himself continued his silence on the Hoover proposals and declined to discuss the matter of the telegraphic reply he is generally understood to have made to President Hoover.

Has Own Plans

Mr. Roosevelt is understood to have his own plans for dealing with the debtor nations separately and through regular diplomatic channels after he becomes president.

Most of Mr. Roosevelt's day was spent in signing Christmas pardons for inmates of state prisons and in talking with state department heads regarding curtailment of expenditures.

In the latter connection he said there had been a response from many sections of New York to his presidential campaign speech at Portland, Ore., in which he stated his view that governmental bodies dealing with public utilities, such as the New York state public service commission, should have more than mere quasi-judicial powers. He said upstate New York communities acted promptly upon his statement that commissions should investigate and regulate. As a result, he said, many cities and villages have asked for immediate investigation of public utility rates in their territory.

During the day Governor Roosevelt sent a message of godspeed to the Puerto Rico Chrisimas ship Coamo, which sailed from New York with a cargo of food for children of the stricken island. At the same time he called for a "constructive, vigorous program for the welfare and rehabilitation of the entire island."

WHITE HOUSE SILENT

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—Continued White House silence on the exchange of views between President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt over the war debts situation led to the belief tonight that further communications were proceeding between them.

In his reply to the chief executive's first proposal that they cooperate in the appointment of a commission to review war debts, disarmament and world economic questions, the president-elect declined to participate.

However, he is understood to have shown a sympathetic attitude toward early study of the war debt

'DOLE' TO VETS CAUSES DEBATE

Economy League Stand Is Presented to Joint Comish

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—The word "dole" applied by William Marshall Bullitt to federal disability allowances to veterans for troubles not traceable to service duty today set off a wordy encounter before the joint congressional committee on veterans legislation.

Senator Robinson (R., Ind.), who has repeatedly announced opposition to reducing the yearly billion-dollar veterans' relief bill, heatedly took exception to this remark by Bullitt, who appeared for the National Economy League.

Explaining the league's recommendations for reductions aggregating about $450,000,000, Bullitt estimated $104,000,000 was in the disability allowances, which he described as "nothing but a dole x x x a pure dole given to a man not because he was disabled there but because he was once in the service."

Leaning half-way across the committee table, Robinson interrupted and retorted:

"These allowances are not based on charity." I think that is a perfectly outrageous statement. You did not have any such idea in 1917 did you?"

Bullitt replied the subject was one over which there could be a difference of opinion. He said the league felt the allowance "might be fairly eliminated," estimated 560,000 persons would draw such payments by the end of this year, and that this total would increase as the veterans grew older.

When Robinson insisted on ascertaining whether the view the payment was a dole was Bullitt's or the league's, Bullitt replied the league's opinion was that "the money thus paid x x x is neither more nor less than a gratuity or a dole."

Answering a question, Bullitt told Robinson he did not know who contributed to the league's funds.

When the senator a little later asked him if the purpose of the league's presentation was to reduce taxes, Bullitt replied the recommendations were given "to assist the committee in forming a sound national policy" on veterans relief.

3.2% Beer Would Be A Good Drink

Detroit, Dec. 21 (AP)—The 3.2 per cent beer approved by the house today, is 50 per cent stronger than "4.4" beer legalized near the end of the prohibition regime in Ontario, according to calculations of W. J. Waas, brewmaster of the Walkerville (Ont.) Brewing Co.

The "4.4" referred to the per cent of proof spirit, he explained, which means 1.998 per cent of alcohol by weight or 2.51 per cent alcohol by volume.

The beer which the United States house proposes to legalize would contain 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight, or approximately 4 per cent by volume.

"The beer given the O. K. of the house would not be as strong as some of the old American beers," was explained, "which ran as high as 3.75 or 4 per cent by weight, but it would be a good American beer."

GEORGIA CHAIN GANG FUGITIVE WINS FREEDOM

NEW JERSEY GOVERNOR ANNOUNCES DECISION

BY FRANCIS A JAMIESON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 21 (AP)—Robert Elliott Burns was given his freedom tonight so far as New Jersey is concerned.

Governor A. Harry Moore flatly refused to send the convict-author back to a Georgia chain gang from which he twice escaped.

After listening to tales of alleged brutalities in chain gangs, of the use of "sweat boxes" and "stocks" in Georgia prison camps, Governor Moore announced he decided the case "upon its merits." The United States constitution leaves the governor no apparent discretion in extradition proceedings, he said, but the United States and New Jersey supreme courts have ruled he may decide upon merits.

Burns, a short, nervous person, was pushed and pulled by spectators who rushed from the assembly chamber galleries to shake his hand. His brother, the Rev. Vincent J. Burns, threw his arms about him in elation.

Thanks Governor

The ex-convict, who had listened intently to the hours of debate by his eminent array of counsel, supplied by the American Civil Liberties Union, and the representatives of Georgia, was taken to the rear room. There he met his mother. Tears in her eyes, she kissed him.

Burns then was taken to the executive offices, where he kissed the governor's hands as he expressed his gratitude. He was obviously surprised by the governor's reaction.

"Burns," said Governor Moore, "you can stay in New Jersey as long as you lead an honest life and remain a good citizen, but never mind the publicity stuff. It is now up to you whether you go back."

The diminutive Burns, accused by John I. Kelley, Georgia assistant attorney general, with misrepresenting the treatment he received in the southern prison camps, was taken back to the Newark jail to be formally released.

Whether Burns can be sent back to a Georgia chain gang by Governor Moore's successor was apparently debatable. It was the opinion of legal experts a new governor would hesitate to overrule his predecessor. But there seemed to be no precedent. Attaches of the governor's office could not recall a refusal by a New Jersey executive to extradite.

More than two hours of pleading by such eminent counsel as Arthur Garfield Hays, former Judge Harry V. Osborne and Charles Handler for Burns' freedom was climaxed by the statement of Samuel Bernstein, the grocer he robbed of $4.80, that he didn't think the convict should be returned.

Grocer Testifies

Injection of Bernstein into the hearing was accomplished by a touch of the dramatic. Suddenly, Osborne, who had been urging freedom for the convict, turned to the "best judge"—Bernstein, now a resident of Far Rockaway, N. Y.

"Do you think Burns should go

2 Burn to Death In Auto Collision

Ann Arbor, Dec. 21 (AP)—Orville Burtis, 40, Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Vivian L. Porcupile, 34, Ann Arbor divorcee, were burned to death Wednesday morning when their automobile collided head on with one driven by Milburn S. Embury, 27, Detroit, 8 miles west of here. Embury was dragged from his flaming car by passersby, who were unable to remove Burtis and Mrs. Porcupile from their automobile, also flaming.

Muskegon Mayor Plans to Resign

Muskegon, Mich., Dec. 21 (AP)—Pressure of business was given as the principal reason for Mayor Thomas Bennett's announcement here that he would resign his position on the city commission next Monday. He also added that he had lost interest in the position due to "constant wrangling" on the city commission.

Chicago Gangster Killed By Detective

Chicago, Dec. 21 (AP)—William Nydack, 35, who police said was a former partner of "Smiling Joe" Filkowski, notorious bandit and Cleveland's "public enemy" No. 1, was shot and killed tonight when police sought to serve on him a warrant charging robbery. Nydack was slain by Detective Harry Miller, who was present Monday when Frank Nitti, Capone's "enforcer," was shot and seriously wounded by another detective.

Miller also declared that Nydack and Filkowski kidnaped him and Detective Harry Lang a year ago, taking their weapons and stars, and then ejecting them from their car. Lang was the policeman who shot Nitti and was shot and slightly wounded during the Monday affray.

Miller declared that when he started to read the warrant tonight, "suddenly Nydack grabbed the warrant and tore it to bits. Then he reached for his pistol. I just beat him to the draw and shot him."

NO ACCORD IN WAGE DISPUTE

Executives Propose Compromise to Representatives of Labor

(BULLETIN)

Chicago, Dec. 22 (Thursday) (AP)—With the last union representatives reporting approval early today, the wage parley between railway labor and managers reached agreement with a compromise to extend for nine months time the 10 percent reduction of the basic wage scale.

Chicago, Dec. 21 (AP)—Railroad executives late today proferred to employes a compromise to extend for nine months the 10 per cent wage reduction which will expire next Jan. 31.

The offer provided in addition that either side may, after June 15, sue for a revision of the basic wage scale, in accordance with the railway labor act. The proposal was submitted to the 21 railroad brotherhood heads three hours after a joint conference had reached an impasse.

Previously the railroads had offered to extend for at least six months and an indefinite period thereafter the deduction entered into a year ago which provided that basic rate remain the same but that labor take a voluntary 10 per cent wage reduction. It did not guarantee restoration of the basic rates.

Labor representatives had rejected the roads' first proposal as being too indefinite and suggested that the deduction agreement be extended an entire year.

Th roads' latest offer provided that should either side wish to revise the basic rate after next June 15, the other side would cooperate with it in procuring prompt and nationwide settlement subject to the rail labor act.

Immediately after the executives made their offer, Alexander F. Whitney, general chairman fo the labor representatives, said labor delegates would study it this evening and meet in another joint conference with the executives to give their reply.

Far-Reaching Economy Program Will Be Put Before '33 Legislature

BY G. T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Dec. 21 (AP)—A far-reaching economy program involving consolidations of state governmental agencies, sharp cuts in expenditures and abolition of non-essential activities will be left behind by the outgoing Republican administration for consideration by a Democratic controlled legislature, it was announced today.

A joint legislative commission, named by Governor Brucker, Lieutenant Governor Luren D. Dickinson and Speaker Fred R. Ming to study governmental costs submitted its report. A schedule of retrenchment which it was claimed would cut $5,000,000 a year from state expenses and would radiate savings into local governmental units was advocated. About 100 bills have been prepared by the commission and the attorney general and will be introduced in the next legislature which convenes January 4 with the recommendation that they be enacted.

Strictly Non-Political

Only two of the nine members of the Republican commission survived the Democratic landslide, Representatives Gus T. Hartman, of Houghton, and Vern J. Brown, of Mason, will introduce the economy bills and bear the brunt of their defense.

Prefacing its report with the declaration that the inquiry was conducted "along strictly non-political lines" the commission found that the maximum burden of taxation "which government can impose upon its citizens" has been exceeded in Michigan.

"Whenever that burden increases beyond the ability of the people to pay the inevitable results are depreciation of land values, industrial depression, bankruptcy in private and governmental affairs and destruction of confidence in government. Michigan is faced with such a condition today. This condition has resulted from a long era of unwise public spending, ventures into new fields of governmental functions and a general disregard for the taxpayer and his ability to pay," the report said.

The remedies offered by the commission would affect almost every state institution and department.

"The government should attempt no activity individual citizens may carry on," the commission decided. "The government should continue no activity which is not absolutely essential to the protection of life and property, the reasonable advance of education and culture and the ordinary shelter and care of unfortunates."

One of the outstanding proposals of the commission was that immediate steps be taken to release from state prisons 2,000 inmates who "without danger to society might well be at large." It was estimated $500,000 a year could be saved in this manner. A more adequate probation and parole system to supervise released minor offenders was suggested.

The commission would take from the state department of public instruction its power to require school house construction of a certain type, would abolish state interscholastic athletic and music supervision, repeal laws calling for distribution of state reports to schools, repeal teacher institutes authorizations and otherwise restrict the activities of the department to save $300,000.

Building Retrenchment

All state employes would be classified and no officer except supreme court justices would receive more than the governor. The commission proposed the governor's pay be raised to $7,500. Each session of the legislature would pass upon all salaries. Acts governing the compensation of local officers would be repealed and governing bodies would fix their pay.

The Hartman $24,000,000 building bill, providing for a five year state institutional program, and measures providing for armories in Detroit, Kent county and Alma would be repealed and building appropriations hereafter would be based upon funds available.

The power to fix the state tax would be taken from the state administrative board and be placed in the hands of the legislature. The University of Michigan and Michigan State college would get no further appropriations for buildings and improvements. They would be forced to operate on their mill tax appropriations and would receive only such part of the mill tax as actually was collected. At present the state rather than the institutions stands the delinquencies in this levy. The savings were estimated at $1,930,000 in university expenditures and $710,000 at Michigan State.

The commission advocated abolition of the state securities commission and enactment of a "fraud code" carrying adequate penalties for those who misrepresent securities. The state public utilities commission would be cut from five to three members and the pay of the commissioners would be $5,000 instead of $7,000.

The state police, if the commission recommendations are adopted, would be reduced to a limited high trained police organization, including the identification bureau and a broadcasting system." Fees from the sale of drivers' licenses would go into the general fund instead of to the department. The annual appropriation for the department would be limited to $600,000, a saving of $120,000.

Other Measures

Other measures to be offered the legislature by the commission provide:

Reductions in cost of stationery and printing.

Cut the pay of the clerk of the house and secretary of the senate from $5,000 to $4,000; abolish legislative junkets; pay legislative

NEW TAXATION PLAN STUDIED

Comstock Considers Levy On Sales as Source Of Revenue

Detroit, Dec. 21 (AP)—A new base of taxation for Michigan, with "some sort of a sales tax" as the chief supporting source of revenue to the general property tax is planned by Governor-elect William A. Comstock.

Salient points of the new taxation plan, Comstock said, will be laid down in his message to the legislature, but the lines along which the plan will be developed will not be determined until later.

In declaring for a sales tax, the governor-elect said he had come to the conclusion that such a measure will be "the only available source of revenue sufficient to meet the situation."

"Because of the enactment of the 15-mill constitutional limit and the breakdown of receipts from the general property tax as the single base of the taxation system, it is becoming increasingly apparent that Michigan must adopt a new base of taxation," he said.

An income tax, the governor said, probably would not be feasible, "First, because the experiences of states in the east and elsewhere have proved conclusively that in times likes these it will not yield sufficient revenue to meet the situation; second, no income tax can be enacted without an amendment to the constitution and the people already have voted such an amendment down three times."

The governor said the sort of sales tax to be recommended will depend a great deal on how much money will have to be raised.

"It is impossible to be specific until I can see exactly what the problem it, and have a chance to talk it over with the ways and means committee of the legislature," he added.

What Is Technocracy?

Leaders Hope to Convince World With Their "Scientific Data"

Technocracy, which forecasts control of this nation by engineers, claim to have made some startling discoveries in the course of its scientific analysis of our social mechanism, something of Technocracy's methods and their results is explained in this, the third of a series of six articles.

BY PAUL HARRISON

New York, Dec. 21.—Under the casual title of "An Energy Survey of North America" are being compiled some 3000 complicated graphs and charts which some scientists believe will change the whole future course of this continent's life.

These charts are the substance of Technocracy, and by them the organization and its sensational promises of prosperity, leisure and progress must stand or fall.

Technocracy is now on the defensive against critics who condemn the scheme as contrary to all established American principle and as dangerous to American morale at a time when it already is precariously balanced. Technocracy has only half-facts, reinforced by speculative theory, with which to fight back. "But just wait," say the Technocrats, "until we have all our data ready."

Many physical scientists, as well as economists, politicians and industrialists, now are among the doubters of the new philosophy of national technical control. But Howard Scott, chief Technocrat, is confident that once his fact-finding project is finished, and the complete functioning of our social mechanism" has been pictured in blue-prints, the world can do nothing other than believe.

RESIGNS

Albert H. Wiggins, president of the board of the Chase National Bank of New York for many years yesterday resigned, saying he preferred to turn the job over to a younger man. He is 65.

WIGGINS QUITS AS BANK CHIEF

President of Chase National Resigns After 21 Years

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—Albert H. Wiggin today resigned as chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, after 21 years of existence of that institution through its development to the largest bank in the world.

Wiggin will continue to be active in the affairs of the bank, it was stated, but asked that the heavy responsibilities of directing its affairs be given to a younger man. He was chairman of the governing board of the bank. He will remain a member of the Chase board of directors and also of its executive committee.

The banker, who will be 65 years old next Feb. 21, is also a director of many leading corporations and of the federal reserve bank of New York. He is a leading force in the international banking group which now is working out the gradual thawing of Germany's short term indebtedness, and his retirement from executive direction of Chase bank activities will not signify any plan to relinquish his activities in other fields.

Will Go to London

Wiggin will sail next month for London where, as representative of 101 American bank creditors, he will confer with other members of the German standstill committee regarding its program for 1933.

In a letter to the Chase executive committee, Wiggin revealed for the first time that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., had become in recent years the largest single stockholder of Chase National.

The retirements of Wiggin leaves the leadership of Chase principally in the hands of Winthrop W. Aldrich, president, who is a brother-in-law of Rockefeller. Aldrich became president of Chase after the Chase-Equitable Trust Co. merger. Other high executives, to all of whom Wiggin paid an eloquent tribute for their ability and cooperation in helping to guide the institution through the years following 1929, include John McHugh, chairman of the executive committee, and Charles S. McCain, chairman of the board.

Keen regret was expressed by the executive committee in accepting the resignation.

"The services of Mr. Wiggin not only to this institution but to banking throughout the world," the committee said in a formal statement, "have been of a pre-eminent character. The Chase National Bank is in no small measure a monument to his energy, wisdom, vision and character. When he became president of the bank in 1911, its capital, surplus and undivided profits amounted to $12,953,397. Today its capital funds amount to $266,335,062."

EARLY ACTION BY SENATORS IS PROMISED

COLLIER'S MEASURE JAMMED THROUGH UNCHANGED

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—Trampling down all dry opposition, house wets jammed the Democratic 3.2 per cent beer bill through unchanged today and laid it on the doorstep of the senate where early action is promised.

The big vote, 230 to 165, approving the measure was the first successful move by wets in either branch of congress to modify the Volstead act since it became law twelve years ago. Shouts and applause greeted Speaker Garner's announcement of the bill's passage. The size of the affirmative vote surprised even the most active advocates of the measure, including Speaker Garner, who said: "It was bigger than I expected, and shows that a majority of the house wants to follow the will of a majority of the people."

Collier Is Happy

There had been some doubt in the minds of Garner and other Democratic leaders that enough Cullen drys could be ousted to approve the measure. They were happy tonight, back-slapping each other. Majority leader Rainey congratulated Chairman Collier of the ways and means committee for being the first to pilot through the house in the short session a major Democratic proposal.

"It will give the people a mat beverage to drink and the federal treasury much needed revenue," Collier said.

Action came after three and a half hours of exciting debate, watched by a number of senators and hundreds of spectators who filled the galleries.

The drys were repulsed early in the day by a teller vote of 163 to 118 when they attempted to wreck the bill on a motion by Representative Sirovich (D., N. Y.), who unwittingly gave them parliamentary advantage on a motion to strike out the enacting clause.

Gaining confidence by this show of strength, the wets then slapped down in quick succession about two dozen amendments, including one to reduce the alcoholic content from 3.2 per cent to 2.75 per cent.

It was the most severe setback for the house prohibitionist in many years. Only last spring they defeated the O'Connor-Hull beer bill 228 to 169. The vote today is almost a complete reversal of the representative strength of the two groups, but it fell far short of the 272 to 144 vote for the outright repeal resolution defeated by six votes on the first day of the session.

LANSING CAR STRIKE ENDS

New Pay Scale Approved, Union Service to Be Resumed

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 21. (AP)—This city's traction strike was settled late today as the walk-out of union operators was in its seventieth day.

An agreement was reached at a meeting of business men and union leaders for a settlement of the dispute. John F. Collins, president of the Lansing Transportation company, agreed to the terms of the settlement over long distance telephone from Jackson. Representatives of the striking operators were in Jackson tonight to obtain Collins' signature to the agreement.

The agreement calls for a wage scale of 32 cents an hour, restoration of seniority rights, and a return of union workers to their jobs Friday. No provision is made for arbitration of wage disputes, a point which union leaders had previously insisted.

Street car workers began their strike Oct. 13 when their wages were reduced from 41 to 31 cents an hour. Although the walkout did not stop traction service, it brought frequent disturbances. The city council had attempted settlement a number of times but without success. It eventually adopted a resolution authorizing the establishment of a bus system to replace the street cars.

During the seventy days of the strike, union workers were operating "courtesy cars" in competition with the street car service.

Those attending the meeting today at which a settlement was affected were: J. W. Wilford, president of the chamber of commerce; Harold Schetzer, Elmer W. Hammond, Frank L. Young, all representing the business men; and John Reid, of the local trades and labor council, Herbert Chamberlain, William McConnell, Aaron Hicks and Albert L. Montgomery, representing the strikers.

back to a chain gang?" he asked.

"I do not," replied Bernstein.

"The defense rests," said Osborne to Governor Moore.

Then, Merritt Lane, a leading member of the New Jersey bar, opened Georgia's case. It was, he said, quoting a court opinion, "an absolute obligation" of the governr to honor the requisition of a soverign state.

"The people," Lane said, referring to citizens who had protested extradition, "have asked you to rule that the people of Georgia are no longer fit to govern themselves and that they are not fit to rub elbws with the rest of us."

"Is Your Excellency," he asked, "going to condemn the state of Georgia on ex-parte statements made here? If you deny the extradition, the effect of your denial will be just that thing."

Kelley spoke for more than an hour. He denied Burns had been mistreated, defended prison conditions in Georgia and asserted if the alleged abuses were true "thousands of homes in Georgia would rise up in wrath for the protection of their own flesh and blood."

"I do not condone everything done in Georgia," Kelly said, "just as you wouldn't condone everything done in this state. But if a guard in those camps oversteps the bounds of reason he won't stay there long. x x x if we are denied the right to this prisoner we will defer to your decision without feeling or reprisals or desire on our part to deny any reasonable request of New Jersey. I speak not for the governor of our state but for the people of Georgia. We are proud of our state in its history."

Among those who spoke in Burns' behalf were his mother and brother.

The brother made an impassioned plea, said the state of Georgia, "not my brother," was on trial, and added, "Your Excellency, my brother will, I know, if you refuse to sign this extradition, live up to your confidence in him."

Hays cited cases where governors had refused extradition, and concluded by asking:

"Were these governors derelict in their duty, ignorant of the law? They knew the matter was one of moral duty. It is up to the governor to do what his conscience tells him he should do. They say Burns is a fugitive from justice. He is a fugutive from injustice."

During the hearing, the question of whether Burns had been promised a pardon when he returned voluntarily to Georgia after the first escape, was debated.

Governor Moore read a telegram from Judge Joseph B. David of the Cook county superior court, which read: "My recollection is Stanley stated if Burns returned to Georgia voluntarily he would be released, either paroled or pardoned in 90 days." Vivian Stanley was a member of the Georgia prison commission.

Kelly argued a representative of the state was "without power" to make "a contact."

At Least 3 Killed in Train Wreck in Ohio

Lima, O., Dec. 21. (AP)—At least three persons were killed and several others injured in a train wreck two miles south of here tonight.

The dead were tentatively identified as Court Scott, engineer, of Huntington, Ind., Earl Smihart, fireman, of Huntington, Ind., and Charles Aldrich, of Lima, a railroad towerman.

The train, Erie, No. 7 enroute from New York to Chicago, went into a ditch at a Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad crossing.

The wrecked train was composed of a baggage and mail car and two passenger coaches. Fire broke out in the baggage and mail cars, both of wood construction.

It was feared other trainmen were trapped in the flaming coaches. Fire fighting equipment and ambulances were sent to the scene from Lima.

The number of injured, all passengers, was not learned immediately, but none was believed to have been hurt seriously. Doctors and nurses gave first aid treatment to the victims.

Aldrich was employed in a D. T. & I. tower at the crossing.

It is believed the train struck a switch, later plowing through the signal tower, killing Aldrich.

Firemen had difficulty fighting the flames. No water was available in the immediate vicinity and they were forced to rely solely upon chemicals.

Of the thirty passengers on the train, two were cut and bruised. The others were shaken badly and suffered from shock.

The dead men were burned almost beyond recognition. The engineer and fireman were pinned beneath the engine.

FAR-REACHING ECONOMY PLAN IS SUBMITTED

employes only for the days they actualy work—saving $63,000 of the legislative appropriation.

Abolish the offices of assistant budget director, assistant superintendent of construction and building department office manager. Make the secretary of the board commissioner of purchases and supplies and require the governor's personal secretary to do the secretarial work of the board.

Reduce the number of inspectors and employes in the state agricultural department and appropriate no further funds for apiary, white pine blister rust and cherry fruit fly inspections and abolish state supervision of drains, for a saving of $17,500.

Cut the salary of the conservation director from $7,000 to $5,000; reduce other employes correspondingly, merge divisions wherever possible, set a maximum of 30 cents an hour for impressed labor, make the fish division self supporting by requiring it to live on the revenue from a general rod license; transfer the parks division from the conservation to the highway department to be supported by highway funds. These changes would make an estimated reduction in tax costs of $212,000.

Repeal the law providing for a crippled children's commission, estimated saving $50,000.

Discontinue appropriations for state and county fairs, estimated saving $157,000.

Cut health department appropriations $154,000 a year, and merge the laboratories of the health and agricultural departments.

Repeal the free state employment bureau act to save $43,560, and repeal other laws requiring state supervision of the hours firemen, railroad employes, street car operators and others are employed.

Limit the state library's functions to those needed to serve state officials, and continue circulating libraries only when those borrowing books pay the costs. The estimated saving is $20,000.

Cut the pay of members of the state tax commission from $5,000 to $3,600, of the superintendent of the capitol from $5,000 to $3,600; superintendent of boys vocational school from $6,000 to $3,000, and abolish farming activities at the institution; superintendent girls' training school reduced to $2,500; abolish position of supervisor of matrons in school for the blind; abolish position of matron at school for the deaf and fix budget limit of $156,400; reduce salary of superintendent of state public school to $3,000; cut salary of Jackson prison warden to $5,000, abolish position of matron and cut staff and salaries; abolish positions of matron at Ionia reformatory and Marquette prison and cut staffs and salaries; cut prison food costs sharply by a study of proper purchasing and preparing; charge Michigan state prison with $700,000 due from the Chelsea cement industry, to be paid into the general fund from prison funds in installments.

Reduce salary of the president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology from $12,000 to $7,500 and the appropriation for research work from $50,000 to $25,000 a year; increase tuition fees in Teachers' college to not less than one fourth the per capita cost of operation and require these colleges to "revert to the strict field of teacher training, leaving the arts and sciences to the university and other state colleges."

Cut the salary of the president of Central Teachers' college to $5,000; the president of Michigan State Normal to $6,000; president of Northern Teachers' college to $5,000 and the president of Western Teachers' college to $6,000. Reduce the state's share of the pay of circuit judges from $6,000 to $5,000.

All other departments and institutions would be held to budgets not exceeding the "economy appropriations" set by the legislature in 1932. The commission decided it inadvisable to recommend civil service for state employes at this time.

Shipping Declined About 50% In 1932

Sault Ste. Marie, Dec. 21 (AP)—Shipping figures for the St. Mary's Falls canal this year, made public Wednesday, showed 20,480,873 tons of freight, less than half of last year's total, passed through the canal during the year. Last season more than 40,000,000 tons went through the canal, while in 1929 over 92,000,000 tons were handled. The shipment this year was the smallest since 1898.

Migrating Fowl Offers Problem

Artesia, N. M., Dec. 21 (AP)—This might be hunters' paradise but it's just a problem to the farmers. Migrating wild ducks and geese are so numerous that farmers complain they damage grain fields and other winter crops. The big push started late, only a few days before the hunting season closed.

EARLY ACTION BY SENATORS IS PROMISED

the final vote. Leaders made no attempt to control their forces holding it was not a party matter. Among the 230 votes for the bill 133 Democrats; 96 Republicans, and one Farmer-Laborite were recorded. Sixty-four Democrats joined 101 Republicans in opposition. Lame ducks voting for included 17 Democrats and 43 Republicans, and voting against, 12 Democrats and 69 Republicans.

Immediately after the house action, senate leaders announced plans for prompt action in their branch after the Christmas holidays. The bill will be sent to the judiciary committee first for a study of its provisions modifying the Volstead law and then to the finance committee to act on the tax provision.

In addition to legalizing 3.2 per cent beer by weight, the measure provides a tax of $5 a barrel; federal protection to dry states, and leaves to the states the regulation of distribution, except that wholesale and retail sellers must obtain federal licenses.

The ways and means committee estimated it would return up to $300,000,000 annually in revenue. It was adopted as one of the Democrats' major legislative proposals for the short session. As described by Representative Bankhead (D., Ala.), who presided, "its purpose is fundamentally for revenue."

Early in the day, the senate judiciary sub-committee reached an agreement on a section of a repeal resolution outlawing the saloon. It plans to submit the complete measure to the full group early in January for action.

Wets Given Scare

The drys frightened the beer supporters when they forced two votes on Sirovich's motion to strike out the enacting clause. Sirovich, who yesterday had told the house that beer contained the same ingredients as milk, had made the motion in order to gain the floor to speak against an amendment by Representative Mapes (R., Mich.), which proposed to declare milk and beer as identical in contents. After speaking the New Yorker sought to withdraw his motion. Representative Mouser of Ohio, a Republican prohibitionist who was defeated for re-election, took advantage of the parliamentary situation to force a vote.

There were but a few wets on the floor at the time and when a standing vote was ordered, Representative Bankhead counted slowly and announced a vote of 132 to 108. Mouser and Representative Blanton (D., Texas), objected to the count and demanded a vote by tellers.

A hurry call was sent out by the party whips and even Speaker Garner was brought into the teller line. The wets piled up a vote of 163 to 118, and from then on took control.

The second dry assault came in the amendment proposed by Representative Michener of Michigan, assistant Republican leader, who was retired in the November elections.

He proposed that the alcoholic content be reduced from 3.2 per cent to 2.75 per cent. The prohibitionists expected this to go over, but when a standing vote was ordered, only 75 supported Michener and 124 voted in opposition.

Michener told the house "there is grave doubt of the constitutionality of 3.2 beer and I for one believe the supreme court would hold it unconstitutional." He added:

"In my experience as a prosecuting attorney, I have seen men drunk on draft beer that did not contain more than 4 per cent alcohol by volume."

"I can not vote for 3.2 beer, while I keep my present belief that it is intoxicating. I would violate my oath of office if I did."

He predicted that passage of the 3.2 per cent bill would deal the "cause of those who seek repeal of the 18th amendment, irreparable injury."

A former distiller, Representative William E. Hull (R., Ill.), answered Michener by asserting that the difference between 2.75 beer and 3.2 "is so small that no one, not even a brewmaster, could taste two glasses and tell the difference."

"The only reason the committee recommended 3.2 is to allow beer that has the extracts and flavor necessary to make it good beer," he said. "There isn't any difference in the intoxicating qualities of 3.2 and 2.75 beer because neither is intoxicating."

A move by Representative O'Connor (D., N. Y.), co-author of the rejected O'Connor-Hull beer bill in the last session, to have an amendment adopted declaring beer of 3.2 per cent to be non-intoxicating, was quickly disposed of by a voice vote.

Representative LaGuardia (R. N. Y.) sought to have wine legalized, but the chair ruled his amendment in violation of parliamentary procedure under which the beer bill was being considered.

A former barkeeper, Representative Palmisano (D., Md.), proposed to reduce the tax from $5 to $3 a barrel "to insure nickle beer for workmen," but his amendment was defeated. O'Connor offered an amendment to increase it to $7.50 a barrel, then without explanation, withdrew it.

Long a proponent of beer, Representative Schafer (R., Wis.), sought to insert a provision to "protect the home brewer from the federal prohibition officers," but he was shouted down. When he demanded a standing vote, it was defeated 83 to 58.

The question of President Hoover's attitude toward the legislation arose today, as it did yesterday during debate.

Representative Sabath (D., Ill.), one of the bill's staunch supporters, said he felt "the president under the influence of the prohibition leaders and the Anti-Saloon League, will veto it," he added:

"If he does, I'm afraid that we will not be able to pass it over his veto."

The Illinois Democrat said, however, that if the bill failed this session it would be passed next session, along with repeal of the 18th amendment.

A final attempt was made by Representative Crowther of New York, Republican member of the ways and means committee, to kill the measure by sending it back to the committee.

Speaker Garner, who had resumed the gavel, quickly put the question. Members were tense, as were the spectators in the galleries. The motion was voted down by a roaring voice vote.

problem which came to a head last week with several nations defaulting in payments.

There is every reason to believe the president is still seeking a basis of accord that will bring united action which would continue into the next administration.

At the capitol it is assumed that this is the reason Mr. Hoover has not made public Governor Roosevelt's first reply to his invitation.

It is also assumed that the White House is willing to listen to Governor Roosevelt's ideas on how the problem should be attacked, namely, through regular channels and without linking debt relief with the economic and armaments conferences.

Mountain Growth Is Held As Cause Of Earthquakes

San Francisco, Dec. 21 (AP)—Earthquake shocks felt last night and early today over a considerable portion of the far west are attributed by the Carnegie Institution Seismological laboratory at Pasadena to the growth of mountains in Nevada.

After shocks were experienced today, particularly in west-central Nevada, the apparent epicenter. Chimneys toppled and windows were broken at Fallon.

The main shocks starting at 10:11 o'clock last night, were felt over a wide area from Denver, Colo., to Long Beach., Calif.

Dr. Charles F. Richter, Pasadena seismologist, said the aftershocks showed a continuous movement of mountain growth and that the upward thrust of the earth was of considerable area.

Melvin Jorgensen And Sheets Found Guilty By Board

Detroit, Dec. 21 (AP)—For introducing the organizer of a soft drink protective association to prospective clients among saloon owners, two Detort patrolmen today were found guilty by the police trial board of conduct unbecoming officers, receiving punishment instead of dismissal.

The officers, Melvin D. Jorgensen and John F. Sheets, were required to forfeit their pay during the period they have been under suspension, forfeit 52 consecutive leave days and will be transferred to another precinct.

Terming their action a "serious breach of police duty," the board said it considered the favorable past record of the officers as well as lack of proof that either intended to profit financially from their actions, in not recommending dismissal.

The patrolmen testified before the board that they introduced Gerald Raggerty, organizer for the association, because of their friendship for Duncan C. McCrea, former assistant prosecuting attorney, who was to be legal adviser of the association. The board in its statement indicated that it had considered McCrea's influence in advising them.

Escanaba People Attend Funeral Of Edw. R. Field

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Field have returned to their home here from Plover, Wis., where they attended the funeral services of Edward R. Field, former Escanaban, and a resident of Treasure Island, Linwood township, for the past 26 years, who died Friday evening at his home, following a three years' illness.

Services were held at Plover on Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock at the Boston Funeral Home, Miss Minnie Cliff of Buena Vista officiating.

The following item, taken from the Stevens Point Daily Journal, telling of Mr. Field's death, will be of interest:

"Edward Raymond Field, a resident of Treasure Island, Linwood township, for the past 26 years, passed away at his home at 9:40 o'clock Friday evening after an illness of three years' duration. He had been confined to bed the past two days.

"Mr. Field was interested in the promotion of better farming and operated his own farm scientifically. He served as crop reporter for his district and for the past 15 years had made out the annual report for the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C. From his farm he and his sons operated the Treasure Island milk route in Stevens Point during the past two years.

"Mr. Field was born on May 16, 1881, at West DePere, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Field. His boyhood was spent in DePere, where he was graduated from the graded schools and entered the West De Pere high school. He later attended the Green Bay Business college graduating with the class of 1898.

"His marriage to Miss Lavina Elizabeth Preston, also of West De Pere, took place on September 18, 1901. For the following four years Mr. and Mrs. Field made their home at Escanaba, Mich., where Mr. Field was employed as a stenographer for the North Western Railroad company. They moved from Escanaba to Appleton, where they spent one year on a farm, and they moved to their present Island farm in 1906.

Great Debts Stop Business Machine

Not overproduction but the burden of national, state, local, and individual debts is the obstacle which must be removed before the industrial and agricultural machines can be thrown into high gear, according to Dr. G. F. Warren, Cornell university, who has achieved a reputation for correct predictions in the past few years.

One way of reducing the total indebtedness in this country, as pointed out by Dr. Warren, is to complete the deflation which has been going on more or less rapidly since 1929. Complete deflation will necessitate the sale at sacrifice prices of properties whose owners are not able to meet their obligations.

The Cornell economist states that, if the price of such debt burdened properties is reduced enough, investors will come into the market and buy the properties. The removing of such property from the market, where it now creates an atmosphere of uncertainty, will stimulate further sales and construction activities.

Another way to work out of the present economic period, suggested by Dr. Warren, would be to increase the value of gold, but this would involve international cooperation. Reducing the weight of gold in the dollar would permit the setting of any desired price level.

The real remedy to prevent economic conditions such as prevail now is a managed currency, according to Dr. Warren. With such currency, its buying power would fluctuate as the average price level of commodities fluctuated. When commodities increased in price, the owner of a dollar would be able to get a proportionately larger amount of gold for his dollar.

THE CHRISTMAS DINNER

Who among us can affect to despise the gastronomic delights of the family Christmas dinner? The most sophisticated person must admit our festive board at Christmas is a place where the gods might love to linger. What a picture it presents to the eye, the big turkey browned to a golden crispness; the heaping dish of mashed potatoes, which need only the addition of the delicious gravy to convert them into manna, and the dressing, seasoned to just the right proportions. Then there is the crisp pleasing salad, the golden sweet potatoes, the big dish of creamed cauliflower, the celery, olives, pickles and cranberry sauce; the mince and pumpkin pies, the rich, fragrant coffee and the raisins, nuts and other goodies that follow. Kings and emperors in the past have conferred high honors on those who set some especially wonderful meal before them, but no king nor emperor of any age ever sat down to a dinner that looks and tastes as good as that which is set on the tables of the great American home on Christmas day.—Katherine Edelman.

University Assets Total 51 Millions

Ann Arbor—Increasing $1,831,293 during the fiscal year 1931-32, University of Michigan assets now total $51,498,449.48, according to the annual report of Shirley W. Smith, vice-president and secretary.

Most of the increase in assets was in new buildings given to the University, the report shows. The principal items include Hutchins Hall, new Law School class room and office structure built from the Cook bequest, $737,776; the Student Publications Building, home of "The Michigan Daily," $74,725; additional expenditure on the W. W. Cook Legal Research Library, $122,349; and $161,868 for additions or improvements to the Michigan Union, Stadium, University Hospital and University Press Building. Practically all the new value in buildings, except the $49,000 Hospital addition, came from gifts from individuals or other sources distinct from State income, states Mr. Smith. The Student Publications Building was built from accumulated profits of student publications.

The operating income of the University was $8,216,221, a decrease of $980,209 from the preceding year. Out of each dollar spent by the University approximately 55 cents went for instruction and research, 25 for the University Hospital, 7 for operation and maintenance of physical plant, 5 for administration, 3 for general expenses, 5 mills for extra plant additions and 6 mills for service departments. The last includes storehouses and the work in cars and repair of steam, electrical and plumbing systems.

SANTA CLAUS HAD CLOSE SHAVE

Santa Claus was back on the job at the Fair Store after a thrilling experience, in which he narrowly escaped probably injury or death.

While riding home late Tuesday from a visit with the children in Cornell, a partridge flew through the windshield of the coupe. Glass was thrown into the face of the driver, Gardon Stegath, inflicting several painful cuts, but Santa Claus was not touched. Some of the windshield glass was knocked with such force that it cracked the glass of the coupe's rear window.

Perch Story

Conservation Officers Explain Their Side Of Case

Considerable misunderstanding concerning the conservation department's policy regarding perch fishing has been aroused, because of rumors that bass and pike fishermen would be prohibited from selling their catch, it was stated yesterday by Robert Furlong, local conservation officer.

Mr. Furlong, accompanied by Ernest Libby, Marquette, and Erwin Bolly, also members of the conservation department's force, called at the Press office yesterday to reveal the true situation. They said they had warned local fishermen and fish dealers against the sale of perch that are under the legal size limit of nine inches, and that as a result the false rumor has been circulated to the effect that the sale of all perch was to be prohibited. There never has been any intention of interfering with the unemployed men's means of earning a living as long as they comply with the regulation that requires that no perch less than nine inches be sold, Mr. Furlong said.

COMSTOCK CONSIDERS A SALE TAX

GOVERNOR-ELECT WILLIAM A. COMSTOCK is reported to be considering the possibilities of a state sales tax as a substitute for the property tax. It is understood that the sales tax is looked upon with more favor than the income tax, due to the fact that the latter has been twice repudiated by the people of Michigan and also because it is not such a good revenue getter in times of depression.

Sales taxes of a limited nature are levied in various forms in a number of the states, but until this year West Virginia was the only one to impose a general sales tax on a broad base calculated to yield a major portion of the state's revenue. The most notable recent development in sales taxation by the states occurred in the spring of 1932 when Mississippi, faced by a $12,000,000 budget deficit, enacted a general retail sales tax over the intense opposition of the state's merchants.

Since the levy went into effect on May 1, it has yielded revenues in excess of estimates and has proved so inoffensive in practical operation that most of the original opposition to it is said to have disappeared. It is now expected to return over $2,000,000 annually.

The tax is levied at a general rate of 2 per cent, with slightly higher or slightly lower rates on sales of certain commodities. It applies to practically all businesses and professions, the only exemptions being insurance companies, building and loan associations, state, national and mutual savings banks, religious, charitable, scientific and educational institutions, fraternal societies and hospitals. Receipts are collected by the state each month, except in the case of very small businesses, which make returns on a quarterly basis. The statute allows individual merchants to collect the tax as they choose. Large business houses are reported to have adopted the practice of adding the amount of the tax on the sales slips of cash customers and on the monthly total of charge accounts.

Before the sales tax went into effect in Mississippi, 75 per cent of all the tax revenue of the state and its political subdivisions was paid by property, and only 15 per cent of the state's inhabitants paid property taxes. It was, in fact, the breakdown of the property tax system, owing to economic conditions among the farmers, that made resort to the sales tax imperative.

To a considerable degree, Michigan is faced with the same situation that faced Mississippi, and there is much likelihood that similar measures will be attempted.

FAVOR ONE-DEER LAW

A LARGE majority of the readers of the Ironwood Daily Globe, who have replied to a questionnaire on deer hunting legislation, has voiced its preference for a one-deer law instead of the buck law.

The one-deer law, as the proposal was submitted in the questionnaire, would permit hunters to take one deer of either sex in alternate years. The preponderance of sentimnt in favor of the one-deer law, apparently, is influenced by the belief that the one-buck law is not altogether satisfactory as a means of preserving our deer population.

Proponents of the one-deer law point out that under the present system many does are shot by mistake and are left out in the woods. They also claim that present law creates a scarcity of bucks for breeding purposes.

The buck law, however, appears to still retain the favor of the state conservation commission and the well-known authorities in matters of wild game conservation. The buck law advocates claim that it promotes safety in the woods as it causes hunters to take a good look before they shoot. They minimize the reports of the numbers of does and fawns left to rot in the woods, and deny there is a scarcity of deer in the upper peninsula. They believe the one-buck law has worked well and see no reason for making a change. From all indications, there never will be complete agreement on this highly controversial question.

$1500 FOR AIRPORT

ACTION by the state administrative board, authorizing the expenditure of $1500 for the construction of a new airport in Delta county, strengthens the probability that this project will be carried out.

At the last meeting of the board of supervisors, a committee was appointed to negotiate for the purchase of a tract of land, located beyond the Milwaukee Road tracks west of the present landing field. This committee will make its recommendations at the next meeting of the board of supervisors on Jan. 30, at which time it is expected definite action will be taken on the question.

The airport project has appealed to county board principally because of the opportunity it presents for furnishing work to the unemployed. The airport site, it is planned, will be purchased with money from the county park fund, while the $1500 sum appropriated by the state administrative board is believed to be sufficient to put the field in shape for use by airplanes.

Air traffic is at low ebb at the present time. It is believed, however, this particular project, in view of prevailing conditions, offers a splendid opportunity to acquire a good landing field at a reasonable cost, and one that will meet the demands of aviation in this region for many years to come.

TIME IS EXTENDED

AS WAS done last year, Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald has extended the time limit on motor vehicle licenses. The extension is made from January 1 to February 1, but it is probable a further extension of 30 days will be made later. Last year, automobile owners were given 60 days of grace.

The plan has met with general favor. The extension of time is an inducement to many owners to keep their cars in operation during the winter months, thereby adding to the gasoline tax receipts and also the revenue of garages and gasoline and oil service stations.

Those who can afford it, however, are asked by the secretary of state to purchase the 1933 plates at the present time as the state highway department is in great need of the weight tax revenues to carry on its program of highway construction and maintenance.

Week-end Murder

(By NEA Service) BY GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

CHAPTER XXXIX

"MARVIN wants to go to church," announced Tom Averill.

Linda nodded. "Of course he would. I should have asked the others. You'll drive him down?"

"He's started by now—wanted to walk. Statlander voted out, although he took pains to make me understand that he always went at home. DeVos and Shaughnessey both preferred to stay here. Incidentally, Statlander did rise, as I thought he would, when I said that Valeska'd be disappointed that we hadn't been able to accomplish more and he told me you'd already suggested that he stay. I gather he agreed with fervor—and you remember my impression yesterday was that he was decidedly unwilling to remain. Whether that was because he didn't like to be upset twice on short notice or whether he was anxious then to make a get-away and now has decided he's in no danger, of course, I don't know. But he's here and that's the important thing. Now—are you ready to go into the locked room, Linda? That's the next step."

A LEISURELY breakfast was over and the morning newspapers literally distributed over the ground floor and the lawn. In the big wheelbarrow chair, DeVos smoked and read. Linda from the bedroom window could see Mr. Statlander inspecting the work—if he would call it that—of the much-disapproved gardener. She wondered if he would count the rake marks, to be sure it had been evenly applied. Shaughnessey was not in sight.

"Do you think we can stay upstairs long enough to go through it together?"

"That was my idea, Binks, but if you think one of us should be on deck one could go in and not the other."

"I'm crazy to talk to you. Did you get anything out of Marvin before breakfast? And did you hear him stop at Cousin Amos' door?"

"Yes, to both. I didn't get any reason for his trying to get in that room but I think I know what caused the final explosion yesterday morning."

"Oh, what? It seemed so queer—one of them going in deliberately, at that hour, just to quarrel!"

"You remember when we were starting for the dance asking Cousin Amos not to open the window on the balcony?"

"And we heard him proceed to do it the moment our backs were turned!"

"Well, in the night—that is, what was left of it after we came back from the club and before we started for the water—I remember hearing that door creaking. I couldn't quite place the sound at the time but it vaguely annoyed me."

"Oh!" A light seemed to break on Linda. "Our door was closed but the others might not have been. It was the sort of thing that drives a nervous person frantic."

"Would you call any of these men nervous?"

"Not exactly." She pondered. "Marvin would be most apt to fit the word. He is rather nervous, I think, but he's so controlled and sort of held in that you mightn't think it.

"But, Tom—" suddenly her mind flashed back to the morning before. "I heard it too—and—wait a moment—"

She closed her eyes. "Yes, yes, now it comes back—! This is what happened. You went ahead. I was looking for my cap. It was so hot, I just sort of stopped to get energy enough to go on. Our room door was ajar. I heard someone walking—down the hall—very quietly. I heard a click—like burning a doorknob—and then that noise, Tom. Louder. You know—like this—" She seemed to imitate, softly, the raucous croak of a crow on a branch. "Rork-rork-rork! Sort of jerky—you couldn't count on it happening even distances apart. It's had me wild in the daytime. It would drive anyone crazy at night."

"A hot night." Tom mopped his face. Hot as it was today, that morning had been worse. The very memory steamed him up.

LINDA thought again. "Then—I stopped paying attention. I'd been standing still, you see, and all these little noises came perfectly clearly at that time in the morning. I'm sure there wasn't any other sort of noise or I'd have noticed it. Anyhow, then I began moving. I did hear the casement go off again—rork—rorking—while I stood at Cousin Amos' door wondering whether to call him—when I thought you were with him. Oh, Tom, I wish I had called—or gone in—"

"There, honey. Don't think about that! Be sure, now—is that absolutely all you remember?"

"Yes. I thought then that the step in the hall was Cousin Amos. Of course it was whoever went in to murder him."

"Went in probably to raise hell about that casement. You say his room door was shut when we got back from the dance?"

"Yes, but he probably heard us come in. I've felt all along that he may have gotten up later and opened the door, thinking no one would be passing. Remember the air was hotter and closer all the time."

"Pratt says he left his door open. Claims he went right off to sleep but that he wakes easily, too. Says he has trained himself to fall asleep instantly and wake at any noise. Talks about wild animals in camp and such heroics."

"Then the creaky door didn't bother him?"

"He told me about it, so at least he noticed it. Claims, however, he can rise above such minor annoyances. But, Binks, he says he heard a step in the hall, too—"

THEIR eyes met.

"Then he says he heard the click of a door latch and then the casement creaking once or twice."

"How can he say he heard all that and not the voices—or the scuffle when Cousin Amos was thrown over—and then admit he heard me fall inside the room only a few minutes later?"

"Says he went off to sleep. On again, off again, just like that. He acts as if he controlled it like turning a water faucet. He heard the creaking door—then he slept. He woke to hear a step, a door latch and the door again. Then, he says, silence—and off to sleep again. A little later, a thump. Up springs Marvin, grabs his pants, and dashes off to your rescue."

"Don't forget the underwear," said Linda.

"Oh, yes. Off pajamas—or perhaps he wears a night shirt—or underwear, on pants—enough for modesty, yet done in a trice. I believe that is the correct expression.

"It does sound phoney." Linda seemed thinking aloud. "But you said yourself Marvin was a quick mover."

"I did and he is. But, Binks—you said he was very reluctant to talk about it yesterday. Today, while he didn't bubble over, he was ready enough with his information. Strikes me he's had time to think about it (he may be a quick mover, but as you pointed out, he's a slow thinker), and sees he's got to talk about it perfectly openly and naturally—and to have a good clear story, too."

"Well, how do you think he did it?" demanded Linda.

"How's this for—what did Shaughnessey call it?—reconstruction? Pratt didn't undress completely or go to bed. He has a hot little room and a small one. Well, after we get back he sits up, hot and broody, door open—and hears that infernal casement going 'rork-rork,' as you call it. He stands it just so long. Then he goes more or less berserk and starts out to stop it or know the reason why.

THE REASON FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas, however glad the season,
Surely must have some other reason.
Or this is all a tinsel show,
To quickly come, and swiftly go.
Today we call the stranger brother;
Tomorrow shall he be some other?

Shall we forget the foe today,
Tomorrow morn renew the fray?
Or shall we, having once forgiven
And made the earth a bit like heaven,
Look forward to a better year,
And turn not back, but start from here?

We know that Christmas makes us kinder
To virtues wiser, failings blinder;
And, if we now retrace our path,
Renew our hate, resume our wrath,
However glad the Christmas season,
Then Christmas has but little reason.

LIMIT ON 1932 TAGS EXTENDED

Escanaba Office Has Better Sales This Year Than Last

An extension of one month on the legal limit for using 1932 automobile license plates has been granted by Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, and motorists will not be required to buy their 1933 licenses until Feb. 1 if they feel that they are unable to do so before that time.

So far, the sale of new license plates at Escanaba has been better than for the corresponding period last year. The department of state branch agency in the state fair office yesterday reported 95 pairs of passenger plates and eight sets of commercial vehicle plates as the total issued up to Wednesday. The total number of 1932 passenger automobile plates sold up to Dec. 21 of last year was only 60 pairs, in addition to 14 pairs of truck license plates.

In explaining the 30 day rather than 60 day extension, Secretary Fitzgerald said: "The highway department has an acute need for all funds due it." Any delay in receiving funds will seriously hamper that department. On the other hand, automobile owners have their January tax bills to meet the day after Christmas. This has been taken into consideration in making the extension.

Further Extension

"In order to spread the taxes over a longer period, the time limit for securing new license plates has been extended to Feb. 1. If the next few weeks show that thousands of automobile owners will be unable to purchase 1933 licenses by that date, and will be compelled to stop using their autos on that account, a further extension may be made," Fitzgerald states.

"In the meantime, all automobile owners who are financially able to do so, will be aiding the state and their less fortunate neighbors, if they secure their 1933 plates as soon as possible."

As long as 1932 plates are legal in Michigan, they will be acceptable in Indiana. Because Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin and other nearby states change administrations Jan. 1, the policies to be adopted by these states with regard to 1932 Michigan plates, cannot be ascertained.

The tower of WSM, Nashville radio station, is 878 feet, probably the tallest in the United States.

TECHNOCRACY, WHAT IS IT?

said, "but not as scientists. Engineers as such can be neither radical nor conservative; given facts, they cannot disagree. If we provide them with all the data on what is happening industrially to this country, they will all reach the same conclusion."

Likened to Power Plant

But why did Technocracy begin its work? Was it not necessary to make an unscientific assumption that there was something wrong with our present system before starting out to discover scientifically what was the matter with it?

Let Professor Walter Rautenstrauch, head of the industrial engineering department of Columbia University, and host to the Technocrats, answer this one:

"No," he said. "We started on perfectly valid observations. If we had a power plant, for instance, that failed to respond automatically to increase or lighten ed loads, we would know it was out of adjustment.

"We have seen our social mechanism get farther and farther out of adjustment. Industrial employment goes down; production goes up. Consumption doesn't keep pace with production; but debt goes skyrocketing. Depressions follow booms; but each succeeding period of prosperity is shorter and each depression is lower and of longer duration. It is like a huge machine shaking itself to pieces."

Here are some other observations of the Technocrats:

For 7000 years mankind had to depend on the human body for energy, and no change was effected in the rate of doing work. Then James Watt and his steam engine started a revolution. In the last 100 years, with steam and electricity, we have multiplied our energy resources 9,000,000 times. Scott says that of this acceleration, 8,766,000 has occurred since 1900.

Machine-Age Progress

As for production increasing, there are almost as many significant examples as there are machines: Five days once were required to make a pair of shoes; today one workman can make 68 pairs in that time . . . Old-time brick-makers produced about 450 per day per man; a modern straight-line plant can make as many as 400,000 per day per man . . . A glass-blowing machine operated by one man can do the work of 19 using the handicraft method . . . A miller of old could make a barrel and a half of flour a day; a modern mill can produce 30,000 barrels a day per man—with a shorter day and better flour.

More up-to-date comparisons are furnished by statements that: An automobile could be made in 1929 with one-third as many man hours as were required in 1919—and one-twelfth as many as in 1909 . . . Freight car unloading machinery is 216 times as rapid as hand labor . . . Seventy men operating a digging machine can do the work of 7000 with pick and shovel . . . With the same number of men, three times as much pig iron can be produced now as in 1904 . . . American power stations, employing a total of about 240,000 men, can produce energy equaling the work of 1,350,000,000 men . . . A rayon plant is being built in New Jersey which will require no human labor except for one man pushing buttons . . . Electric light bulb production has been speeded up 9,000 times, per man hour, since 1914.

What are some other aspects of the picture as the Technocrats see it? While production increased at a fairly steady pace, employment in the manufacturing industries also increased—until 1918. Then, Scott says, the charts of every industry so far studied show that man-hours began to decrease while production continued to increase. These trends continued until 1929, when both fell off sharply.

Watch Course of Depressions

They dropped, as everyone knows, into the present depression. And about depressions, Technocracy has this to say: That each succeeding one has been greater than the last, and that each furnished the impetus for greater mechanization of industry. Production efficiency was increased 9 per cent in 1905, 8 per cent in 1909, 11 per cent in 1912, 9 per cent in 1915 and 20 per cent in 1922. Today, says Technocracy, industry is so efficient that if our peak production of 1929 were to be resumed, less than half of our unemployed workers could be reemployed. And at the rate of decline now anticipated, another ten years would bring the unemployment total to 25,000,000.

Now about debts, which do not concern Technocracy except insofar as they are considered to be helping shake to pieces our present system: "We lift ourselves out of depressions by the creation of new debt," Scott declares. "Our debt totals continue to rise when every other index, like production, employment and consumption, is decreasing. We now owe 16 times as much as in 1915, and more than four times as much per capita. Our total industrial debt today is about $218,000,000,000, and it is increasing at a geometric rate. Taxes and obsolescence included, the fixed charges on this debt now are $34,000,000,000 a year—nearly half the national income in 1928. These obligations, which must be supported by the sale of goods, are growing faster than the goods are being produced."

Say Era Has Ended

The old argument that has been advanced against the menace of technology—that the displacement of workers in industry releases them for the building up of new industries—no longer holds good, the Technocrats believe. They admit that that has happened before, but declare that a limit has been reached. They claim to have discovered that technological advances now are bounding upward in geometric progression, where before they proceeded arithmetically. They say that the creation of new industries cannot possibly check the decline of employment because old industries are constantly being further mechanized and the few new ones are made mechanically efficient as soon as they appear.

If there were no other restraining factor, Technocracy believes, our present rates of growth would be curbed by scarcity of raw materials. Since 1900, they announce, the United States has mined more iron than has been produced by all the world since the dawn of history. And if coal production were to increase at the rate it has in the past, we would need a ball of coal as large as the earth to supply our needs for the next 50 years.

Those are some of the reported findings of Technocracy. Most of them have been criticized as inaccurate by reputable authorities in each field.

NEXT: Technocracy looks ahead.

THEATRES

"I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang," a Warner Bros. picture starring Paul Muni, which shows at the Delft Theatre today, is a strikingly picturesque and realistic picturization of a wellbred man's experiences as a convict on a chain gang, with all the attendant thrills of two escapes in which the prisoner is pursued by armed posses and bloodhounds.

Not only is it said to carry more thrilling and sensational episodes than most screen dramas, but it presents a triple romance of strange and glamorous loves. The picture is based on the novel by Robert E. Burns which caused so much comment recently, because of the incredible revelations of chain gang prison life.

Driven to desperation by the tortures of the whipping post and other cruelties, the fugitive, portrayed by Muni, makes his escape and crosses to another state after almost unbelievable hardships. He made good under a new name only to be betrayed by a woman. He is returned to the chain gang only to escape again in one of the most exciting man hunts the screen has recorded in years.

There is no more touching figure imaginable, than this fugitive, yearning for love and home, skulking from place to place, not daring to show his face, a man without a country. Paul Muni, the famous "Scarface" of the screen, and noted for his fine interpretation of character on the stage, is said to give his best performance as this fugitive.

It is believed that kissing originated from the desire of men to know whether their wives and daughters had tasted wine.

Experience Back Of Cabinet Labor Appointment Rumor

New York, (AP)—If Miss Frances Perkins receives President-elect Roosevelt's appointment as secretary of labor, the distinction of being the nation's first women cabinet member will rest upon a woman experienced in industrial affairs.

As repeated reports linked the name of the woman industrial commissioner of New York state to a high post in the new administration at Washington, friends listed her accomplishments and contacts in dealing with labor and its employers.

Miss Perkins, sociologist, welfare worker, statistician and labor expert, worked with the President-elect during his two terms as governor of New York, and he is reported to be impressed with her ability.

Known as one of liberal philosophy, she was recently suggested as good cabinet material by a group of Massachusetts progressives, headed by Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard university.

Friends attest to her expertness in labor matters through her conduct of the state industrial commission and point to the social legislation for workers which she helped to pass.

Miss Perkins is of medium height. Her hair and eyes are brown. She is definite in her gestures, emphasizing points in her discussion of a problem. She smiles frequently and makes every effort to clarify arguments.

Early in the depression Miss Perkins took exception to what she considered over-optimistic calculations of the amount of employment as given out by Washington officials, and she has always taken a deep interest in the information of accurate factual material of labor conditions.

Miss Perkins was graduated from Mount Holyoke college in 1902. She attended the University of Pennsylvania and obtained a master of arts degree at Columbia university.

She directed the investigations of the New York State Factory commission, which was partly responsible for new progressive labor legislation in New York; was executive director of the New York Council of the Organization for War Service and a director of the Council on Immigrant Education.

She was married in 1913 to Paul C. Wilson, retaining her maiden name so her own political activities would not embarrass those of Mr. Wilson, who was one of Mayor John Purroy Mitchel's secretaries. There is one daughter, Susanna Winslow Perkins Wilson.

Mrs. Garner to Follow Her Own Social Dictates

Washington, Dec. 21, (AP)—Breaking her long silence on the subject, Mrs. John N. Garner today gave this society-loving capital some holiday cheer by saying she is giving serious study to her oncoming social role as vice-presidential hostess.

Washington several weeks ago heard with gloom the Garner announcement that the vice-presidential pair, in keeping with their "early to bed" custom, would accept only "official" invitations.

Many thought a social sahara lay ahead, so far as events centering about the vice-presidency were concerned.

But today Mrs. Garner let it be known that she is putting to the Washington social scene the question of what elements in it really have official significance, and what forms of social expression are "really worth while."

She said she certainly would accept the post of presiding officer of the Ladies of the Senate, always vested in the wife of the vice president, and that she had not vetoed the Wednesday "at homes" of the cabinet ladies, a round of such functions begun each year by the vice president's wife or hostess.

As for the rest of her "official" sociability—

"Alice Longworth, by not holding the traditional house membership 'at homes', proved it is not necessary for every hostess to do exactly what others have done before them," said Mrs. Garner. "In social events, it isn't necessary for people to follow each other like sheep. I may even think up some new things to do!"

So another Washington social discussion is settled—Mrs. Jack Garner is going to play her vice-presidential role, but she is going to put upon it her own interpretation!

Helen Snyder On Women's Varsity Debate Squad

Appleton, Wis.—Miss Helen Snyder, senior at Lawrence College and a graduate of Escanaba high school, was selected today for the women's varsity debate squad by Rexford S. Mitchell, coach.

Miss Snyder, formerly a debater at Escanaba high school, is a veteran member of the squad here and is one of the seniors on whom Coach Mitchell is relying for continuance of the Lawrence record in women's debate.

Support of the league for independent political action in its attempts to establish a third party in national politics is the question under discussion this year.

What is the most dangerous game known to man?

Is it hunting grizzlies in the Rockies? Or crocodiles in the Ganges? Or facing rhinoceri or buffalo charges in Africa?

There was one hunter, however, who found all these animals too easy a prey. Satiated with the ordinary thrills of big game killing, this man, a paranoic Russian nobleman, retreated to a jungle island where he methodically stocked his hunting domain with the most dangerous game of all—the only animal which added reason to instinct.

What was this most dangerous game?

There are startling thrills in the cinematic answer to that question, which holds the screen of the Rialto Theatre tonight and Friday, where RKO-Radio Pictures' spectacular mystery-adventure film, "The Most Dangerous Game," is the feature.

ASSAULTS WIFE; GIVEN 60 DAYS

Pearson Jailed Second Time on Complaint Of Wife

Lars Pearson, who was released from the county jail a week ago after serving a 15-day term, went back to jail yesterday to serve 60 days, thirty of which are to be spent in solitary confinement. Pearson was jailed when he was found guilty of assault and battery in the court of Justice A. D. Auguire, the complainant being Pearson's wife.

According to the testimony of Mrs. Pearson, her husband has been drinking excessively for several months. He lost two good jobs and the family is destitute. His first jail sentence followed a drunken spree in which he broke up furniture in the home and abused his wife.

When he was released from jail he returned home to heap abuse upon his wife for causing his arrest and conviction. After two beatings his wife again complained to the authorities and Pearson's arrest followed.

There are three small children in the Pearson family.

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—The bond market again stepped down to a lower level today despite resistance displayed by the highest grade investment groups.

Volume increased on the downgrade, sales totaling $11,781,000 against $10,720,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds lost two-tenths of a point.

Easy money conditions and hope for a drastic reduction of governmental expenditures were credited by some dealers for steadiness of the federals.

Government loans were up most of the day, six creeping forward to new highs for the year. Several of them eased from their top marks, however, in late trading.

Losses of 1 to 3 or more points were recorded by a number of rail issues.

With the exception of the International 5½s and 7s, most of the German obligations sagged under profit taking. An easier tone was also shown by some of the Australians, Japanese and Italians.

Curb Stocks Fall, Undertone Heavy

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—Curb stocks developed a somewhat heavy undertone today, in quieter trading.

Losses were largely limited to small fractions, save in some of the comparatively inactive issues, where some rather wide declines suggested selling to establish losses for tax purposes. The total turnover of 160,000 shares was about 40,000 under yesterday's.

In utilities, Electric Bond and Share and American Gas and Electric sagged about ½ point, but were off only ¼ at the finish. The Bond and Share and American Superpower preferred issues lost from ⅜ to 1¾. Central Power and Light 7 percent preferred appeared at 36, a loss of more than 20 points since it last traded.

The Ford issues were about steady. In the oils, Standard of Indiana was about steady, and Gulf rallied nearly a point.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Dec. 21—Extensive liquidating sales by eastern holders of wheat futures tumbled the Chicago market temporarily today to below the season's bottom level but fractional rallies ensued. Accuracy of Washington official crop estimates were widely questioned.

Late rallies in wheat prices were ascribed to purchase orders on the part of United States government-sponsored agencies and to buying here against simultaneous sales at Winnipeg. Liverpool wheat quotations declined to a new all-time record low for futures in that market and to the lowest known for cash wheat or futures in England since 1588.

Wheat in Chicago closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8 higher, corn a shade to 5-8 down, oats 1-8 off to 1-8 up, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents lower.

Corn and oats averaged lower with wheat. Increased rural selling of corn was reported.

Provisions receded owing to downturns of hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—December, 45, offers; May, 45 3-4 to 7-8, 46 3-4 to 7-8; July, 45 5-8 to 3-4, 46 5-8. Corn—December, 23, offers; May, 26 5-8, 26 7-8 to 27; July, 28¼, bids.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—The stock market put the brakes on its recent downward slip, but contented itself mainly with holding prices as they were. There was little evidence of a rally.

Some of the industrial favorites, including U. S. Steel preferred, which had been singled out for selling early this week, responded to the lash of short covering, running up a point or so, but the main body of industrial stocks were steady or only fractionally higher.

The tobacco and railroad stocks looked rather feeble, most of them declining under scattered but fairly steady liquidation. The coppers also skidded for a time, when board room gossip turned to the question of large surplus stocks of the red metal and prospects for further price cuts, but in the late trading, they shook off some of their earlier weakness and were about steady at the close. Foreign copper prices were again firm. Trading was again quiet, transfers totaling 737,980 shares.

American Tobacco "B" lost nearly 2 points. Anaconda, Kennecott and American Smelting were fractionally lower. Santa Fe and Union Pacific whittled down their earlier losses to fractions. New York Central lost more than a point. American Can, Allied Chemical, Case, Consolidated Gas, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and U. S. Steel common closed slightly higher. Coca Cola gained 1½. Owens-Illinois Glass, after sliding down more than a point at one time, closed slightly higher on a spurt in the late trading, after the success of the wet group in a test vote on the beer bill in the house in Washington.

The mid-week trade reviews were mildly encouraging, although little direct effect was shown in the market, which continued to be dominated largely by professionals. The gain in electric power production for last week, which carried the margin of difference compared with last year to 6.7 percent against a spread of 9.1 the week before, helped the utilities in a degree. However, much of this gain, which exceeded similar increases in the corresponding weeks of 1931, 1930 and even 1929, was attributed to the weather. There were many stormy dark days last week.

FOREIGN EXCHANGES

New York, Dec. 21—Foreign exchange steady. Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. Great Britain demand, 3.34; cables, 3.34 1-8; 60-day bills, 3.34 3-4; France demand, 3.90¾; cables, 3.90 5-16; Italy demand, 5.11½; cables, 5.12.

Demands: Belgium, 13.84½; Germany, 23.81½; Holland, 40.14½; Norway, 17.22½; Sweden, 18.22½; Denmark, 17.35; Switzerland, 19.25; Spain, 8.14½; Portugal, (x) 3.04; Greece, (x) .53 3-16; Poland, (x) 11.18; Czechoslovakia, (x) 2.96¼; Jugoslavia, (x) 1.36; Austria, (x) 14.00; Rumania, (x) .59 3-4; Argentine, 25.79; Brazil, (x) 7.57; Tokyo, 21.22½; Shanghai, 27.75; Montreal, 86.75; Mexico City (silver peso) 32.45.

"Perhaps he knocks on the door. Perhaps he thinks Cousin Amos is asleep and he can simply pull the window to and tiptoe out. Probably he doesn't think anything about it—just goes. Cousin Amos bobs up in bed and gives him hell for forcible entry. Marvin explains his purpose. He's still angry at the old man and probably more than short with him. Cousin Amos gets madder. 'Marvin, spare that door—touch not'—etcetera. Marvin touches. Cousin Amos springs up, madder than ever. They argue on the threshold of the balcony and suddenly—it's done! That's the way I figure it out anyhow."

(To Be Continued)

Consolidation Delayed

Bessemer—By a vote of 14 to 7, the county board today deferred action on the petition of freeholders of Watersmeet and Carlson township for a consolidation of the two units. Opposition to deferring action came from Supervisors Norbert P. Achatz, John P. Ballone, Nesto Erickson, William R. Hellen, Axel Hill, Conrad Ostby and A. J. Smith.

The absence of the full membership was given as the reason for the delay. Supervisors Gust E. Kangas, H. M. Wick and Richard P. Zinn did not attend the meeting today.

MIGHTY NIMROD

Stockton, Cal.—Either the deer Frank Sylva, Sonora hunter, shot was adept at dodging bullets, or it had a charmed life—anyhow Frank brought a deer home recently. He declared that it was the same deer he had shot 37 times during the past few week. His 38th bullet brought it down.

FIREMAN'S DAY OFF

Boston.—The old story of the mailman who went for a walk on his day off has nothing on Thomas L. Kane, a fireman. While visiting a friend he heard the fire engines pull up in front of his friend's house. Going out he found members of his own crew trying to open his auto from which clouds of smoke were pouring. He unlocked the door and assisted the men to put out the fire on his seat, which was caused by a cigaret spark.

WHAT! NO CITIZEN!

Fort Worth, Tex.—After voting in Texas elections for 36 years, Thomas S. Crawford, 57, who came here from Ireland when he was 17, learned that he is not a citizen. Just after he arrived in the United States, he was advised that his citizenship would be taken care of, and that he was not to worry. Recent inquiry of the naturalization department revealed that he was not a citizen. Under present laws, however, it will be only a short time until he can obtain his papers.

Eskymos Play Parochial Cagers Here Tonight

BOTH QUINTETS EAGER FOR TILT

12-Foot Restraining Line Will Be Used in Game

One of the feature basketball games of the season will be played at the junior high school gymnasium here tonight when the Escanaba and St. Joseph high school teams put on their annual clash. The feature game will start at 9 o'clock to permit shoppers and clerks to attend after the stores close.

The Eskymos have won three games to date and still can boast an undefeated record. The Parochials lost their opening game to Rapid River but made a surprising comeback to eke out a victory over the touted Gladstone team. On the basis of the record sheet, the game must be considered a toss up. If any advantage exists, it probably belongs to the Eskymos who are playing on their home court.

The Parochials reported yesterday in great shape for practice session which was very brief. Coach Brunelle indicated that he felt his team could not be in a better condition mentally or physically and that in event of defeat for his team no alibi could be offered.

That St. Joseph, however, is not conceding victory to the Eskymos who last year upset the Parochials twice was very evident from the manner in which the squad worked out during the week. A new system has been devised by Brunelle to be used against the Eskymos. The St. Joseph coach figures the plan will work smoothly against the type of basketball played by the Escanaba quintet.

At the Escanaba high school a victory was especially desired. The Eskymos and their followers want to get some measure of revenge for the defeat they suffered in football at the hands of the Parochials.

The 42-foot rule will be in effect for this game which means that instead of forcing the ball past the middle of the floor in 10 seconds the offensive team need only advance the ball to a line 42 feet from their basket. This revision has the approval of both coaches who feel that their teams can maneuver better without being confined to cramped quarters. Coach Nordberg figures the change will permit a return to the system used so effectively by the Eskymos last year.

The probable starting lineups will be: Escanaba, Labre and Christensen, forwards; W. Erickson or Jensen, center; Monson and L. Erickson, guards; St. Joseph, Harvey and Bodette or McGovern, forwards; Clements, center; Brazeau and Boddy guards.

Eddie Chambers, popular Crystal Falls official, will handle the whistle.

Two preliminary games will be played. The first will start at 7 o'clock and will bring together the freshmen and sophomore team of St. Joseph's against the junior high school team. At 7:30 the reserve teams of the two schools will meet.

WOMAN STAR WILL BE PRO

Babe Didrikson Decides To Accept Offers to Play for Pay

Beaumont, Tex., Dec. 21. (AP)—Mildred Babe Didrikson, 19-year-old Olympic star suspended by the Amateur Athletic Union ten days ago because of the appearance of her name and picture in a motor car advisement, announced tonight she had turned professional.

Arriving at her home here from Dallas, Miss Didrikson said she had accepted several offers to play for pay.

She said matrimony was not under consideration, "at least for the present."

Miss Didrikson wired L. De Bennedetti, secretary of the Southern A. A. U. at New Orleans telling him of her plans.

A. A. U. Too Slow

"It is true," she said, "that I have resigned my position in Dallas and that I am considering the acceptance of not one but several of the numerous offers that have recently been made to me.

"The action of the Southern A. A. U. in disqualifying me for further participation in amateur athletics—athletics being the thing I am most interested in and care for most—virtually made this decision for me. Several leading sports writers, friends made at the Olympic games, have advised me that the A. A. U. would have to reverse their decision eventually, but I have never played a waiting game. The A. A. U. has simply been too slow.

"So I bid adieu, for the time being at least, to amateur sports and athletics with no feeling of animosity and with no sense of grievance against anybody—not even the A. A. U. even if the facts clearly indicate the contrary. I suppose the A. A. U. are convinced that they are right, and they are entitled to their opinion."

State Of Siege In Argentina Ordered

Buenos Aires, Dec. . . . (AP)—A 30-day state of siege was approved by congress tonight as a move to forestall any attempts at a revolution.

As congress acted, police were making wholesale arrests of radical leaders, supposedly implicated in a revolutionary plot.

The radical newspapers Tribuna Libre and La Proa were closed, although police were unable to find any compromising documents. Former President Hipolito Yrigoyen, arrested yesterday, was sent to Martin Garcia island, where he had once before been exiled by the former provisional President Jose Uriburu. Other important leaders such as ex-President Marcelo De Alvear and former Ministers Tamborini and Dellepiane were held incommunicado on board the cruiser Vientecinco De Mayo.

HAMMOND QUITS SQUARE GARDEN

Vice-President Is Not Agreed With Policies Of Organization

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—Due to what was formally described as "disagreement with certain policies of the president," Colonel John S. Hammond, one of the last survivors of the Tex Rickard regime, resigned today as vice president of Madison Square Garden and president of the New York Rangers hockey team.

William F. Carey, president of the garden, announced in Springfield, Mass., that Lester Patrick, manager of the Rangers since their organization by Hammond in 1926, would expand his activities to take in the duties of president of the Rangers and vice president of the Garden corporation.

In a formal statement, later in the day, Richard F. Hoyt, chairman of the Garden board of directors, said:

"Colonel Hammond was instrumental in the introduction of ice hockey in Madison Square Garden and has been primarily responsible for its success during the past eight years.

Accept Resignation

"Hockey has always been one of the Garden's most profitable enterprises.

"His resignation is due to his disagreement with certain policies of the president with which he is not in sympathy.

"The board of directors, while recognizing Colonel Hammond's long and helpful services to the corporation since its inception, decide dunder the circumstances to accept his resignation with sincere regret."

Simultaneously today it was announced at the Garden that ticket prices for hockey games had again been lowered drastically, a 33 1-3 per cent slash dropping the scale to $2 for top priced seats, and 40 cents for the cheapest balcony seat.

At the same time reports were current that even more drastic changes in the personnel of the Garden management were impending.

According to a story published today, which Garden officials did not comment on, the Garden failed to pay the 5c per cent tax required by law on premiums charged ticket brokers in excess of the face value of tickets. The situation was brought to the attention of the revenue department by box office employes discharged last June.

Most of the sums involved, said to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars, were said not to have been turned into the Madison Square Garden treasury.

Pittsburgh's Victory Over Notre Dame Was Biggest Sport Upset

(Following is the fourth of a series of six stories of 1932 Associated Press poll on outstanding sports subjects.)

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—Judging from the response to the Associated Press poll, 1932 was filled with one surprise after another for the nation's sports experts, but the biggest shock of all was Pittsburgh's 12-0 upset of Notre Dame, at a time when the Ramblers were being widely hailed as another "wonder team."

The Panther conquest was voted the "surprise of the year" by 43 out of 142 responses to this feature of the second annual poll. Proof that the experts found it difficult all season to "dope" Notre Dame was revealed by the fact 15 other observers named the Ramblers' 21-0 victory over Army as the biggest upset. By the time Notre Dame got around to taking a beating from Southern California, the boys apparently were preserving an open mind on the outcome, for not a single vote included this result among the year's surprises.

Carr's Victories Great

Individually, the outstanding upsets of 1932 were credited to Bill Carr, who caused a series of tremors on the Pacific coast in the summer by beating the great Ben Eastman in three record-smashing foot races. The element of surprise, of course, diminished after Carr's first victory at 440 yards in the intercollegiate championships, but the University of Pennsylvania star received 20 votes altogether and clinched second place in the balloting.

The New York Yankees, already acclaimed as the year's outstanding team in any sport, sprang the biggest baseball upset by taking four straight from the Chicago Cubs in the world series. On the basis of the voting, the biggest Olympic surprises were Eddie Tolan's "double" in the sprints and the triumph of the Japanese men's swimming team over the United States. Ellsworth Vines' straight-set conquest of Henri Cochet in the final round of the American tennis championship singles was voted the leading tennis upset.

Results of the poll on outstanding upsets or surprises of 1932:

Pittsburgh's 12-0 football victory over Notre Dame, 43 votes.

Bill Carr's three foot-racing triumphs over Ben Eastman 20 votes.

Notre Dame's 21-0 defeat of Army in football, 15 votes.

New York Yankees' sweep of world series with Cubs, 11 votes.

Ellsworth Vines' defeat of Henri Cochet in U. S. tennis final 7 votes.

Eddie Tolan's double triumph over Metcalfe in Olympic dashes, 5 votes.

Victory of Japanese swimming team in Olympics 5 votes.

Jack Sharkey's defeat of Max Schmelling for heavyweight title, 3 votes.

Defeat of Texas Christian by Southern Methodist in basketball, 3 votes.

Jim Bausch's record-breaking victory in Olympic decathlon, 3 votes.

South Carolina's tie with Auburn in football, 2 votes.

Comeback of Chicago Cubs after Hornsby's release, 2 votes.

Ross Somerville's victory in U. S. amateur golf, 2 votes.

Failure of Gene Sarazen to qualify for P. G. A. championship, 2 votes.

Olin Dutra's sensational play in winning P. G. A. title, 2 votes.

Colgate's football record (unbeaten, untied, unscored on), 2 votes.

One vote each for the following: Cubs' collapse in world series; resignation of John McGraw as manager of the Giants after 30 years; failure of St. Louis Cardinals to finish in first division; play of Arnold Herber for Green Bay Packers in pro football; elimination of Gene Venzke and defeat of Frank Wykoff in Olympic trials; Ralph Hill's performance in nearly winning Olympic 5,000 meter race; Olin Dutra's finish, 68-65, in metropolitan open golf; Gene Sarazen's comeback in the last two rounds of U. S. open golf; downfall of New York Giants; victory of Kerry Patch in Belmont Futurity; Army's 46-0 defeat of Harvard in football; Virginia Van Wie's 10 to 8 victory over Glenna Collett Vare for national women's golf championship; Bates' scoreless tie with Yale; partial collapse of Philadelphia Athletics; Auburn's rise in Southern Conference football ranks.

Lefty O'Doul Back From Trip to Japan

San Francisco, Dec. 21. (AP)—Back from a three months trip to the Orient where he helped coach Japanese in the finer points of baseball, Frank "Lefty" O'Doul believes the people in the land of the rising sun have so absorbed the technique of the American pastime they soon will be ready for international competition.

The Brooklyn outfielder returned today aboard the Chichibu with Ted Lyons, Chicago White Sox pitcher, and Herb Hunter, former major leaguer. The trio, and Moe Berg, Washington catcher, conducted a coaching school at six Japanese colleges making up the "Big Six League."

With the assistance of interpreters and the sign language, O'Doul tutored the Japanese in the art of slamming out base hits and handling the duties of the outfield. Lyons lent his experience toward polishing the pitching department while Berg took the backstop men in hand.

O'Doul says the Japanese are weak as hitters, but outstanding as fielders. Lyons thinks the pitchers are further advanced than the rest of the players. Berg, who is returning via Europe, found the catchers excelled in fielding, but lacked initiative in the directing of the team.

Toledo, O., Dec. 21. (AP)—Tommy Paul, National Boxing association featherweight champion, outpointed Johnny Mitchell of Detroit, in a tame ten-round feature bout on a charity card here tonight. Paul refused to extend himself at any time.

Tony Lombardo, 142, of Toledo knocked out Frankie Linhart, 139 of Buffalo, in the sixth round of their scheduled eight rounder.
